

Indian Knowledge Systems: Bridging Tradition & Modern Legal Thought

The ICFAI University, Raipur
Organizing One Day Workshop on
Indian Knowledge System (IKS)
Date: 31st March 2026
Organized By:
Faculty of LAW in Association with IQAC Cell
Venue : Shri N. J. Yasaswy Moot Court Hall, Academic Block-A
Add: NH-53, Raipur Bhilai Road, Kumhari, Durg Website: www.iuraipur.edu.in

The Faculty of Law proudly organized an enriching workshop on Indian Knowledge Systems (IKS), bringing together distinguished academicians and thought leaders to explore the intersection of tradition and contemporary legal frameworks.

We were honored to host Dr. Rana Navneet Roy, Associate Professor, HNLU, who delivered an insightful session on “Indian Knowledge Systems and the Evolution of Environmental Jurisprudence in India.” His discourse beautifully highlighted the deep-rooted ecological wisdom embedded in Indian traditions and its relevance in shaping modern environmental law.

The workshop also featured Dr. Ankit Awasthi, Assistant Professor, HNLU, who engaged participants with a thought-provoking session on “Epistemic Justice and Legal Pedagogy: Reclaiming Indian Knowledge Systems in the Decolonisation of Legal Education in India.” His session emphasized the need to integrate indigenous knowledge systems into contemporary legal education.

Privileged to have Prof.(Dr.) Shiv Dayal Pandey, Hon'ble Vice Chancellor, whose motivating words inspired students towards academic excellence, along with Dr. Pyali Chatterjee, HoD, Faculty of Law, whose vision and encouragement added immense value to the event.

The workshop was seamlessly coordinated by dedicated faculty members — Mr. Shubharth Shukla, Mr. Pranay Patel, Mr. Asheesh Yadav, and Mr. Dharmesh Yadav, along with active student participation, ensuring its smooth execution.

The sessions sparked meaningful discussions, encouraged critical reflection, and offered valuable perspectives on integrating traditional knowledge with modern academic frameworks.
