Orientation Report for the New Batch
Date: 07/08/2025

Subject: Orientation Program and Guest Lecture Summary – School of Law

The 2nd-Day Orientation Program for the incoming batch of law students was successfully conducted on 7/08/2025 at the School of Law, ICFAI Raipur. The objective of the program was to ensure a smooth and welcoming transition for the newly admitted students while fostering early engagement through interactive and academic sessions.

The initial segment of the orientation was designed to cultivate a spirit of camaraderie, communication, and collaboration among the first-year students. A series of structured team-building activities were conducted, which included:

- Ice-Breaker Games: Facilitated interaction among students to help them become comfortable in the new environment.
- Campus Treasure Hunt: Students participated in small groups, working collaboratively to solve clues that introduced them to key locations within the campus, including the library, faculty offices, moot court, and administration block.
- Inter-Batch Engagement: Opportunities were created for the new students to interact with seniors, helping to bridge the academic and social gap between batches and to foster mentorship from the very beginning.

The response from students was overwhelmingly positive, and the activities effectively set the tone for a cohesive and inclusive academic environment.

Following the interactive sessions, a seminar was organized in the Moot Court Hall. The school was privileged to host Mr. Ayush Jay Sarkar as the guest speaker. Mr. Sarkar, a legal expert in commercial and corporate law, delivered a detailed and highly informative lecture on the Model United Nation (MUN). He explained the importance of MUN for law students. According to him, Model United Nations (MUN) is a valuable platform for students to develop essential skills such as public speaking, research, critical thinking, and negotiation. It enhances confidence, teamwork, and leadership while fostering global awareness and cultural sensitivity. By simulating UN proceedings, students gain a deeper understanding of international relations, global issues, and the importance of diplomacy. MUN not only enriches academic and personal growth but also inspires active citizenship, preparing students to become informed, responsible, and solution-oriented leaders in the future.
